GMA Healthcare and maxIT Healthcare Announce Strategic Alliance

Companies Leverage Strengths to Help Physicians with Electronic Health Record Needs

(Cary, NC) August 2012 – GMA Healthcare and maxIT Healthcare have announced the formation of a Strategic Alliance focused on helping physicians build successful electronic health record (EHR) systems by utilizing NextGen Healthcare's Ambulatory Practice Management and EHR solutions.

GMA specializes in increasing the efficiency and ease of implementing NextGen's solutions through proprietary clinic workflow management tools. maxIT delivers highly experienced healthcare IT professionals and leading practices focused on improving the clinical and operational performance of healthcare organizations. The alliance allows GMA to focus on continuing its intellectual property development and integration in support of improved clinic workflow, client support and new system sales, while providing first class implementation services through maxIT.

"At a time of significant change and development in healthcare, our alliance with maxIT will provide our clients access to the largest dedicated healthcare IT consulting team for support of their NextGen implementation. Our clients will also be able to take advantage of maxIT's deep breadth of healthcare consulting expertise in many areas utilizing technology and services," said Denis Connaghan, CEO of GMA.

The alliance also enables a suite of IT solutions to medical clinics, including electronic health record, practice management, and clinic workflow management products. The two companies' implementation resources have been combined under maxIT who will be the exclusive implementation arm of GMA Healthcare Systems. GMA's clients will further benefit from access to the additional expertise and consulting services offered by maxIT, which was named as the Top Overall Professional Services firm by KLAS in 2011.
